Bold ideas, better solutions 2018

Showcasing candid conversations with consumers. Award winning ABC journalist Emma Griffiths will facilitate a discussion with three influential speakers on the public perception and image of disability in society.

Discussion will focus on dominant and diverse images of people with disability in society, the contradictions in how they are represented and what needs to change. It will also cover what role the media plays in influencing perceptions and public discourse about disability.

Griffiths will draw on the different experiences and viewpoints of three invited speakers who are passionate advocates for people with disability and champions of inclusiveness.

This is guaranteed to be a thought-provoking session with critical messages that could positively change the perceptions and experiences of people with disability in our society.

Don't miss it.
